At 6) and c) the chord-intervals and harmonic intervals agree, but this agreement becomes less and less frequent the further we penetrate into the domain of chords, and therefore the call for exact harmonic analysis will grow correspondingly more and more frequent. Intervals are further to be distinguished under two heads: 1. Intervals of concurrence. 2. Intervals of succession. To the first belong the intervals formed by the concurring components of a tones harmonic thread and of a chord. To the second belong all steps from one tones harmonic thread to another and from one chord to another; in short, all steps in one voice and in combined voices. Here is an example in one voice: --351535513 731...
